CALLOWAY'S GRADUATION BEING READIED

Countian Is Named Woman Of The Year

Mrs. Ethel Paschall Thompson of Perry, Florida, formerly of Calloway County, has been voted "Woman of the Year" by the Business and Professional Women's Club of Perry.

The honored woman is a sister of Mrs. Hoyt Craig, Mrs. Aubrey Reynolds, and Ellis Ross Paschall, all of this county.

Mrs. Thompson went to Perry seven years ago to make her home. She has been instrumental through her work as Home Demonstration agent to make it possible for two girls from Taylor County to serve as State President of the 4-H Club and two girls to attend the National 4-H Conference in Washington and three girls to attend the National 4-H Congress in Chicago.

The former Calloway Countian has served the B&PWC as recording secretary and is presently serving as parliamentarian. Her ability to do things well and with much diplomacy has contributed to her success with all club assignments which have been carried through to completion with much participation by club members, according to a spokesman for the club.

Mrs. Thompson holds a B. S. degree in home economics from Murray State College. She is a member of the First Methodist Church of Perry, Eastern Star, Chapter 104, State Home Economics Association, and State Home Demonstration Association.

Her husband, Henry S. Thompson, is postmaster at Perry.

Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Donna Ruth Herndon has a rabbit by the name of Rufus.

Rufus is housebroken, sleeps with the dog, and consumes one carrot for dinner.

If you call him Brer Rabbit he does not think it is funny.

He says that it is sort of like asking a tall fellow how the weather is up there.

Hooray for the Murray High Band. They won second place at Humboldt. And that is no small job.

Phil Shelton has done a wonderful job with the bands at Murray High. We will never forget how he took over two or three years ago, about two weeks before school opened and whipped up a right nice band.

He improves each year and the band students receive the benefit of his ability.

We hereby give him a vote of confidence.

Joan Crawford is over at Paducah today at the Pepsi Cola news conference.

We did not go because we are not part of the Pepsi generation. We are in the warm milk category.

We do plan to go down to the Kenlake Hotel tomorrow however and view the refurbishment that has gone on there.

6,000 Marines Land In South Vietnam Today

SAIGON (UP) — A task force of 6,000 Marines and Navy Seabees landed today 130 miles northeast of Saigon to build a new American airbase. More U.S. Army paratroopers flew into two air bases outside Saigon, bringing U.S. troop strength in Viet Nam to 41,000.

WHAT PRICE CONFIDENCE?

PRESIDENT JOHNSON has asked Congress for a "vote of confidence" in his war policy in South Vietnam and the Dominican Republic. He received it today.

The vote is in the form of a deficiency appropriation of $700,000,000 to cover military costs.

He explained to a group of congressional leaders at the White House Tuesday that he already has sufficient money and authority to proceed, but he wants the additional appropriation as a substantial endorsement of his policy.

He said he was aware of the demand by some leading congressmen and senators to end hostilities through negotiation and bids these soldiers "welcome to the club," which, he says, he has belonged to all along. So far he hasn't found anybody to negotiate with.

Seven hundred million dollars is a pretty high price to provide our leader with the expression of confidence he needs, but in view of the alternative it is apparently the only thing to do.

We can argue the pros and cons of armed invasions of neighboring republics until doom's day but unless we stand willing and ready to send in the Marines on a moment's notice we can save ourselves a lot of exercise by contacting the Kremlin over the "hot line" and notify the "Reds" they may take over.

President Johnson has demonstrated this nation's willingness to share our blessings with impoverished and underdeveloped people in Latin America and in Southeast Asia.

We believe most Americans would prefer to provide economic aid to the troubled areas than an increase our military forces, but President Johnson's proposal to do just that met with a flat turn-down by Hanoi, Peking and Moscow.

Members of OAS making the most noise over the landing of Marines in the Dominican Republic are those Fidel Castro said on a four-hour radio speech two weeks ago were ready to be taken over by the international communists, and it is much better to have a showdown with them now than later. And there is always a chance that a firm stand may engender desire throughout the hemisphere to get rid of the communist upstart in Cuba once and for all.

Communism has made some amazing gains in the last twenty years, but it went too far in wantonly violating the Monroe Doctrine.

Unexpected Idleness Is Jar To Those Who Reach Old Age

EDITORS' NOTE: One of the hazards of turning old is the psychomotor jar of unexpected idleness. Some people who can't adjust to it become bored and resentful. People accept the deterioration of their bodies with better grace than the restlessness of their minds.

By HARRY FERGUSON

United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is a popular belief that old age is a disease and that people die from it. Nothing could be further from the truth.

"There is no known case of death from old age," says Dr. Edward I. Bortz, a Philadelphia expert on aging. "No pathologist has ever established at the autopsy table that a person dying of natural causes had body tissues correct and adequate in every way except that they had worn out in the process of living. In other words, people do not die of age. They die of diseases which occur with passing time. These diseases are recognizable and can be studied."

What does happen is that there is likely to be impairment of some of the faculties. Eye-sight can deteriorate. About one in eight percent age 65 to 74 has an impairment of hearing and after 75 the rate becomes one in four. Old people lose their teeth, but the experts are inclined to blame it more on lack of care than on advancing years. The American Automobile Association has found in simulated driving tests that reactions of persons aged 70 are a tenth of a second slower than those aged 20.

Foremost Worry

Probably the one thing that worries old people more than anything else is a decline in the powers of memory. In other words they become absent minded, and that causes fear that they are drifting toward mental trouble. The President's Council on Aging gives this example of the problem:

Recently in St. Petersburg, Fla., Joseph Lefter was addressing an audience of 5,000 old people who had assembled to hear a concert. He opened his remarks this way:

"There's a brown Buick parked on the street behind us here. The owner, probably won't remember the license number, but perhaps he will remember his Buick was brown. It's not in the way or anything. The owner simply walked away and left the motor running."

Many old persons accept the deterioration of their faculties with good grace and a sense of humor, but for millions retirement from an active life is a shock. Women make the transition better than men because there still are floors to sweep, dishes to wash and beds to be made up. A man who retires at 65 can be in for serious trouble as Dr. Alexander Reid Martin explains in "Education for life of the job."

Common Symptoms

"Scrophisms," the inability to relax and the fear of change are among the earliest and most common symptoms of so-called psychomotor decline. These symptoms are, of course, unrelated to pain and any demonstrable physical disease.

"When these patients are confronted with leisure, they are restless, dissatisfied, irritable and they show great signs of inactivity and waiting. They have great feelings of guilt if they read a book, go to the movies, watch TV or do anything for sheer pleasure. They are especially intolerant of children. They can overcome this feeling of guilt if they place all their activities under the heading of necessity—TV and theater are necessities for education and vacation are necessities for health."

The honoree chose to wear for the occasion a lovely blue sheer summer frock with light blue matching accessories and a gift corsage of white carnations. Mrs. Paul Humphrey, mother-in-law to be of the honoree, was lovely in a mint green summer silk knit dress with bone accessories and a gift corsage of white carnations.

Mrs. Eddie Roberts greeted the guests as they arrived and invited them to the receiving line which consisted of Miss Taylor and Mrs. Humphrey. Mrs. Carl Taylor of Louisville, mother of the bride-elect, was unable to attend.

Dear Abby . . .

Complain!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: What happened to all that wonderful entertainment we used to see on TV? All we get lately is stuff about crime, murder, divorce and young girls going wrong. But worse yet are all those horror things that make your blood run cold. Is this the way to entertain children? Where are all those funny comedians and all that lovely singing and dancing I used to see? We try to raise our children to think clean and lofty, but with all this junk and violence on TV we don't have a chance. Isn't there something we can do about it?

DISGUSTED MOTHER: Yes, you can write to the sponsors of such programs and complain. You can also complain to your local television station and ask them to pass your complaint along to the networks. If enough people complain, something will be done. But all one mother can do in the meantime is turn off her set.

DEAR ABBY: My husband is the manager of a gas company. We have been married four years and all that time my husband has been trying to persuade my mother to buy a gas stove for cooking. My mother has cooked on an electric stove all her life, and as much as she doesn't like to please my husband, she doesn't think she would be happy with a gas stove. Mother is having her kitchen completely remodeled, and she is putting a new built-in electric stove in. I am so happy my husband is so happy. I am so happy my mother is so happy. I am so happy my mother is so happy.

DEAR DAUGHTER: No man (not even a son-in-law) can change a woman's cooking habits. But if your husband wants to be "mad," he can cook his goose with gas, as well as with electricity. Your mother's preference for electricity isn't nearly as shocking as your husband's attitude.

DEAR ABBY: I am 28, have a good job and I am still a good girl. Three years ago I fell in love with a married man. I didn't know he was married at the time. He said he didn't tell me because he was afraid he would lose me. When I found out about his wife I quit seeing him, but I never really completely got over loving him. He said a friend of mine one day last week and told her to tell me that he was now divorced and he wanted to see me again. How can I find out if he is really divorced this time? Can you help me?

ONCE BURNED: RUN in the other direction. Don't bother to find out if he's really divorced or not. It won't make any difference in his behavior. He could be "free now," but if you married him he could "forget" to tell the next girl who looked to him that he is married to you. Lose him.

DEAR ABBY: I have a very dear friend who has been the best friend I've ever had for many, many years, and I wouldn't chance losing her for anything in the world. But here is my problem: She has a dog, and this dog doesn't look too clean or healthy to me. He is old and very devoted to my friend and he doesn't leave her for one minute. When I am at this woman's home while she is preparing supper for the two of us, she will reach down and pat the dog's head, and scratch his neck and ears. Then he rolls over and she scratches his stomach. Then she goes right on talking and eating, and I am sitting there, finally she sits down to eat, without ever having washed her hands. I have a rather weak stomach and this doesn't set too well with me. I could never tell her, for I do love her a lot, but if you put this in the paper, she might get the hint, as she never misses your column. Thank you.

WEAK STOMACH: I am sure you are right. I have a rather weak stomach and this doesn't set too well with me. I could never tell her, for I do love her a lot, but if you put this in the paper, she might get the hint, as she never misses your column. Thank you.

Pornography Is $2 Billion A Year Business In America

PORNOGRAPHY — INSIDE EDITOR'S NOTE: The girls' magazines, nudist publications and sexy paperbacks to be found on the shelves of many bookstores are only the surface manifestations of a $2 billion-a-year empire in pornography. The following dispatch, second of three, tells how some such publications advertise filth even they dare not print.

By HENRY KEYS
United Press International
WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 150 girls, nudist and homo-sexual magazines and paperbacks are offered for sale on many of the nation's bookstands. But they make up only half the $2 billion a year pornography trade in the United States.

They are the backbone of the pornography empire. Without them a large part of the "industry" might well have been lost. Vulgar as their pictures and editorial may be, their contents barely compare with their advertising.

Advertising experts two years ago disclosed before a congressional committee the key part these publications play in peddling filth that even they dare not print.

The committee was the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee, which was considering legislation to restrict use of the mails for pornographic purposes. Advertising man Thomas Eise, a member of Citizens for Decent Literature, OCL, Fort Wayne, Ind., and a group of advertising colleagues examined the advertising and came up with the curious fact that of 21 sex ads in one magazine, 16 bore different company names but use the same address.

It might have been expected that the spotlight of congressional publicity might have caused the organization concerned to run for cover. But the fact is that the same names and addresses still appear today, hawking much the same wares.

The ads speak for themselves: Strippers—How book. Scenarists—How the other half lives.

VICTORY IN EUROPE DAY

AROUND THE SURRENDER TABLE in the schoolhouse in Rheims, France, sit the Allies and (backs to camera) the Nazi representatives in that historic meeting on May 6, 1945, which ended five and a half years of war in Europe. Signing here is Maj. Gen. Ivan Susloparoff, Soviet artillery chief. Watching at his left is USAF Gen. Carl Spaatz. Next to the empty chair is Lt. Gen. Walter Bedell Smith, Supreme Commander Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's chief of staff. Representing the unconditionally surrendering Germans are Adm. Hans Georg von Friedeburg (left), Gen. Gustave Jodi (middle), and his aide, Maj. Wilhelm Oxenius. Now, 20 years after the biggest war, we're friends again—with West Germany, that is.

Summer Good Time To Lose High Pressure

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

The approaching summer vacation should remain just that for students unless there are some very special circumstances. It is time for parents and educators to get off the high pressure academic bandwagon and consider allowing children to emphasize other areas during the summer months.

In the past few summers many students have been involved in extensive educational programs. There are those who participated for enrichment in areas of particular interest to them. Others have been involved in taking additional courses during the summer. In addition, there are many students receiving tutoring in subjects with which they have had difficulty.

There are innumerable reasons for summer educational programs. It is important that each individual and his parents weight the purposes and possible success of his participation in any specific program.

How can you judge the value of a summer program to your child? First you must remember that the summer is traditionally a vacation time. Therefore your child probably has an attitude which is not conducive to school work. He must be convinced of the importance of any program before he can willingly be involved. If he has no interest and lacks desire, the chances of success are slim.

Council surveyor Ronald Strouhaigh figured the bids were too high — so he and a gang of men laid the pipes themselves for a total cost of $14,000.

Others have been involved in taking additional courses during the summer. In addition, there are many students receiving tutoring in subjects with which they have had difficulty.

There are innumerable reasons for summer educational programs. It is important that each individual and his parents weight the purposes and possible success of his participation in any specific program.

How can you judge the value of a summer program to your child? First you must remember that the summer is traditionally a vacation time. Therefore your child probably has an attitude which is not conducive to school work. He must be convinced of the importance of any program before he can willingly be involved. If he has no interest and lacks desire, the chances of success are slim.

TV CAMEOS: Forrest Tucker He Can't Get Away from the Cavalry

By ED MISURELL
"WHEN I joined the Army in 1954 I went into the cavalry," jovially said strapping Forrest Tucker. "I made $21 a month, less $1.75 for laundry and the Old Soldiers Fund. Now that I'm a cavalryman again, the salary is a lot better."

The colorful six-foot, five-inch-tall actor, seated in a midtown New York bistro, was banteringly discussing his role of cavalry Sgt. Morgan O'Rourke in "F Troop," a comedy series scheduled to debut next fall on the ABC-TV network.

"O'Rourke," he said "has a bit of my own philosophy about him. He has some 'larceny' in his heart, he loves the jug and he loves pretty girls. The locale of the series will be the western frontier not too long after the Civil War, and the storyline will be concerned with the doings of the cavalrymen attached to Fort Courage — the greatest bunch of cowards you've ever seen in your life."

"There will be lots of Indians, too, but they won't be our enemies. They will be our pals. O'Rourke, you see, has made a profitable, separate treaty with them."

The cast, in addition to Tucker, will be comprised of Larry Storch, Ken Berry and Melody Patterson. Comedian Edw. Everett Horton has been signed to appear in a number of segments as an Indian medicine man. The half-hour program will run on Tuesday nights between "McHale's Navy" and "Taylors Place."

"While there will be some roistering moments," continued Tucker, "they will be played humorously and won't be offensive. Whatever we do will be acceptable to children of all ages—without being childish. The characters are a bit way out, but not as way out as those in 'Petitot Junction' or 'The Beverly Hillsbillies'."

"I'm not saying 'F Troop' will shake the intellectual world, but a big segment of the public likes this kind of material. 'Sgt. Bilko' and 'Car 54' were both offbeat but very popular and funny shows a while back."

Shooting on the new series begins in about a week at Warner Bros. Studios, according to

"Horse Soldier" Forrest Tucker and "Medicine Man" Edw. Everett Horton pose on the set of "F Troop," a new series.

Tucker, on a firm commitment of 26 episodes. Bubbling with enthusiasm, he added quickly, "I think 'F Troop' will run for a minimum of three years. I wouldn't even guess at the maximum."

BEFORE signing for the series, Tucker said he had read during the last couple of years some 40 different ideas. "On 12 or 14 of these I had offers to play the leads and said no. The problem for me about a series is that I have to find a character that I can live with 12 hours a day. O'Rourke is one of those characters."

The articulate actor's real life cavalry role began when he was just 15 years old. "I was pretty big, even in those days," he recalled, "and was working in a burlesque theater in Washington, D.C., when school authorities began to breathe down my neck. So I lied about my age and enlisted in the Army to get away from them."

After his stint in the cavalry, Tucker broke into show business as an emcee in burlesque. He continued to work in these undertake to take some cattle through central Mexico during a revolution.

NBC has a one-hour special consisting of an exclusive interview with the two Soviet astronauts of the recent mission in which one of them operated outside the spacecraft. "Chariot Theater" is preempted.

ABC's "FBI" documentary series has "The Road to Rome," dealing with Italy's surrender and the Casablanca conference.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., the minority leader, will be on Jack Paar's NBC House to show about the humorous side of politics. Others present will be Bob Newhart and Liberace.

ABC's "Major League Championship Baseball" offers Los Angeles-Chicago White Sox to EDT, EST, CDT, EST, MDT and MST areas. St. Louis-Pittsburgh to the Chicago area; Minnesota-Kansas City to PDT and PST zones.

The "Secret Agent" far on CBS is "Yesterday's Enemies." A rival espionage network in Lebanon is investigated.

"Saturday Night at the Movies" on NBC screens "The Rack," starring Paul Newman.

The Hollywood Palace on ABC has George Burns as guest host. Performers include opera star Mary Costa, singer Jack Jones, Carl Reiner and Mel Brooks.

NIGHT OVER 5,000 ACRES—A levee break nearly 400 feet long lets the Mississippi River pour over some 5,000 acres of farmland north of Quincy, Ill.

"MOST WANTED" - Oldest person ever placed on the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives" is Charles Bryan Harris (above), who is 98. He is said to have been a member of the old "Shelton Gang" that operated in Southern Illinois three decades ago. Harris is wanted in the double murder of a former woman friend and a man who testified against him in a previous murder trial.

"BROWN HOUSE" - Mrs. Rose Brown, a Ridgewood, Queens, N.Y., housewife, has been getting calls for the White House in Washington for several months. Her phone number is the same as that of the White House, except for the area code. Mrs. Brown says she enjoys saying, "No, this isn't the White House - it's the Brown house."

CARD OF THANKS

We observe that in these days of hurry, hurry, I haven't time to wait. So many unexpected deaths occur frequently, and it is appalling, but death cannot come untimely to him who is fit to die. The less of this world, the more of heaven, the better life, the better immortality. What's our way? Heavenly Father, take our beloved Minister Rev. David L. Eason, a Christian in the true sense of the word, one whose gentle nature harbored no harshness, but radiated love, kindness and patience. That we the members of Wayman Chapel A. M. E. Church accept with Christian submission to God's will in calling our minister home, and we thank God for the Christian minister, the soul of a man and the kind of leadership we have been extended to.

Lovingly submitted, Wayman Chapel A. M. E. Church ITC marrying someone for their beauty is a sad mistake.

Looks is only one part of the total personality.

Some people who may appear to have been put together with left over parts have such an overpowering personality you never realize what they look like.

Others who are perfect in form and dimension have negative personalities.
